

Water Resources

Our water resources service line enhances the personal relationship clients enjoy with Dewberry project managers by forming teams that benefit from the expertise of more than 200 practitioners across the enterprise.

Serving a diverse local, state, and federal public and private client base, we believe in the importance of watersheds and the role they play in the lives of communities, families, and individuals.

Located across the U.S., our water resource professionals bring a wide range of experience when envisioning practical and buildable solutions for local issues.

“The services and products which Dewberry has delivered over the past five years have been exceptional and professional with a high commitment to customer service. Dewberry has provided its services consistently on schedule and within allocated budgets, and we view them as a valuable partner and trusted adviser.”

Our national presence, unparalleled knowledge-base of stormwater and floodplain management, and ability to effectively engage with the public and other stakeholders, enable us to create effective and sustainable local solutions for today's complex water issues.

Leveraging a unique blend of innovative GIS tools and water resources engineering expertise we accurately assess stormwater issues and envision better ways to serve at-risk populations, habitats, facilities, and infrastructure. Balancing science, engineering, environmental, economic, and socioeconomic factors, we develop solutions that help forge resilient and sustainable communities.
