

USACE CONTRACT VEHICLES

| Client/Contract Name                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Contract No.  | Contract Capacity | Period of Performance |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------|-------------------|-----------------------|
| US Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) / Department of War (DoW)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |               |                   |                       |
| USACE, Baltimore District                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |               |                   |                       |
| Multi-Discipline A/E Services for Military ProjectsCLASSIFIED A/E design/master planning/programming/1391s/design-build RFPs/Cost estimating/NEPA/LEED documentation/energy modeling/charrettes/presentations/site investigations/NPDES/permitting/geotechnical services/programming.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | W912DR19D0012 | $120M            | 2024 – 2029           |
| USACE, Engineering Research &amp; Development Center                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |               |                   |                       |
| ERDC-CERL Retro-Commissioning, Building Controls &amp; Cybersecurity IDIQTechnical and Engineering Support Services to support USACE ERDC-CERL focusing on Retro-Commissioning, Specifications & Criteria Development, & Cybersecurity. NOT an AE Contract. NAICS 541690.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | W9132T22D0003 | $10M             | 2022 – 2027           |
| U.S. Army Engineering and Support Center, Huntsville                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |               |                   |                       |
| Utility Monitoring and Control Systems (UMCS) Procurement &amp; Installation Services World-WideProcurement and installation; infrastructure: mechanical/electrical/commissioning/preventive maintenance/O&M/equipment inventories/existing conditions surveys/risk management/force protection/reporting and training.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | W912DY20D0029 | $2.1B            | 2020 – 2027           |
| Missile Defense Architect Engineering Services Indefinite Delivery ContractDevelopment and rehabilitation of tactical, tactical support, and non-tactical facilities supporting the Missile Defense and Operations mission including missile control buildings, industrial workshops, power plants, communications facilities, administration buildings, ancillary structures, new and rehab road work, utility work, and building systems work, and various other facilities as needed to meet the mission.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | W912DY26DA011 | $400M            | 2026 – 2033           |
| USACE, Mobile District                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |               |                   |                       |
| Architect and Engineering (AE) Services for Survey and Mapping to Support the Civil, Military and Interagency Programs for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, South Atlantic Division, Mobile DistrictAirborne Topographic and Bathymetric LiDAR collection and processing, Airborne Multispectral and Hyperspectral imagery collection and processing, photogrammetry, topographic and boundary surveying of private and public lands, Conventional and Global Navigation Satellite System (GNSS) surveying, terrestrial and mobile LiDAR scanning, high accuracy dam deformation monitoring surveying, GIS development and production, Subsurface Utility Engineering that includes locating underground utilities in highly congested areas to CI/ASCE 38-02 standards using geophysical tools.                                                                              | W9127824D0007 | $49M             | 2024 – 2029           |
| USACE, New York District                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |               |                   |                       |
| General AE Services primarily Riverine Flood Risk Management and Ecosystem RestorationThis contract will provide architect and engineering services for flood risk management projects including levees, flood walls, bridge replacements, bridge removal, closure structures, interior drainage facilities and non-structural and ecosystem restoration and mitigation projects. This includes, but is not limited to, preparation of studies, reports, design documents, plans, specifications, cost estimates; flood damage and benefit analysis; structural, geotechnical and geophysical investigations, Hydraulics and hydrology engineering; design and restoration improvements in wetlands, and project report preparations. The project area is primarily within the New York District boundaries and other Corps of Engineers locations within "NAD/MSD" boundaries | W912DS23D0003 | $80M             | 2022 – 2027           |
| USACE, Savannah District                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |               |                   |                       |
| General Design Civil WorksCivil works A/E/reports/studies/cost estimates/construction plans and specs/environmental restoration/flood control/site planning/erosion controls/water control structures/utility systems design/value engineering/H&H studies/coastal engineering.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | W912HN20D2000 | $15M             | 2020 – 2031           |
| Responsive Emergency Action for Disaster and Infrastructure (READI) A-E ContractProvides rapid-response A/E services for disaster recovery and infrastructure stabilization, delivering assessments, planning, design, permitting, and engineering support for urgent federal missions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | W912HN26DA011 | $49M             | 2026 – 2030           |
| USACE, St. Louis District                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |               |                   |                       |
| AEC Unrestricted Architect Engineer IDIQ Contracts for A/E Photogrammetric and Lidar Surveying and MappingAerial photogrammetry/lidar studies/geo-rectification/GIS mapping/remote sensing/geo-database development/satellite imagery/other geospatial processes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | W912P921D0038 | $22.6M           | 2021 – 2031           |

Amanda Pommerenck, PE
 Vice President, Executive Client Manager USACE/Army
 apommerenck@dewberry.com
 256.715.6743

